

Red Hat

Serverless or Serverfull

Serverless computing refers to a new model of cloud native computing, enabled by architectures that do not require server management to build and run applications.

Cloud Native Computing Foundation

The screenshot shows the AWS Lambda website. At the top, there's a navigation bar with the AWS logo, links for 'Contact Sales', 'Support', 'English', and 'My Account', and a 'Create an AWS Account' button. Below this is a secondary navigation bar with links for 'Products', 'Solutions', 'Pricing', 'Documentation', 'Learn', 'Partner Network', 'AWS Marketplace', 'Customer Enablement', and 'Explore More'. The main content area features a large header for 'AWS Lambda' with the tagline 'Run code without thinking about servers. Pay only for the compute time you consume.' and a prominent yellow 'Get started with AWS Lambda' button. Below the header is a 'TECH TALK' section titled 'Advanced Serverless Orchestration with AWS Step Functions' with a 'Register now' button. The bottom part of the page contains introductory text about AWS Lambda's serverless architecture and a diagram illustrating the workflow.

OpenShift Serverless

<https://www.openshift.com/learn/topics/serverless>

The cluster must be sized appropriately to ensure that OpenShift Serverless can run correctly. You can use the MachineSet API to manually scale your cluster up to the desired size.

An OpenShift cluster with 10 CPUs and 40 GB memory is the minimum requirement for getting started with your first serverless application. This usually means you must scale up one of the default MachineSets by two additional machines.

Below this text, there is a section titled "Additional resources" with a link to "Creating MachineSets".

At the bottom of the screenshot, there is a section titled "Scaling a MachineSet manually" with the text: "If you must add or remove an instance of a machine in a MachineSet, you can manually scale the MachineSet."

An OpenShift cluster with 10 CPUs and 40 GB memory is the minimum requirement for getting started with your first serverless application. This usually means you must scale up one of the default MachineSets by two additional machines.

Many people experience our brand by seeing one of the thousands of presentations Red Hatters deliver each year.

From Summit keynotes to conference-room sales meetings, we want our public face to be coherent and recognizable. Our content must be meaningful and relevant to our audiences. Our stories should be told in a clear, compelling way.

HOW TO BUILD AN EFFECTIVE PRESENTATION

GETTING STARTED WITH GOOGLE SLIDES

<https://gsuite.google.com/learning-center/products/slides/get-started/#!/>

Please use the Overpass font for your presentation.

The Red Hat Display and Text fonts will be available in Google Slides soon. We will update the template when it is available.
